List of jurisdiction EXCLUDED from consideration for further amalgamation

Jurisdiction	Reason why no longer considered for amalgamation
Commissioner for Police Service Reviews	The nature of decision-making is essentially recommendatory in nature and not merit review or the resolution of a civil dispute. Decisions made by the reviews are referred to the Police Commissioner who makes the final decision. The Commissioner’s decision is then subject to judicial review. The nature of the decision is therefore outside of the scope of the project.
Land Court Land Appeal Court Land Tribunal Planning and Environment Court Building and Development Tribunal	The recent project reviewing these jurisdictions resulted in the amalgamation of the Land and Resources Tribunal with the Land Court. This was commended in the consultation as delivering improved processes and outcomes. No arguments were provided that demonstrated any benefits to be achieved by further amalgamation of these jurisdictions.
Minor dispute resolution function of Commissioner for Body Corporate and Community Management	Consultation confirmed there is no reason to revisit 2003 Review of BCCM dispute resolution processes. That review concluded that using the CCT delivered cost savings to determine complex disputes requiring specialist adjudication (lot entitlement disputes and contractual matters). But no cost savings could be achieved in transferring the resolution of minor disputes to the CCT. This was better and more efficiently resolved by conciliators. Note that the jurisdiction of Referees (performing same function as BCCM adjudicators) in the dispute resolution processes under the Building Units and Group Titles Act 1980 (which has a number of individual pieces of legislation specified to use the BUGTA dispute resolution process eg Integrated Resort Development Act, Mixed Use

	Development Act are within scope to be further considered.
